ZOMBIES, VAMPIRES, + ALL THINGS SCARY!

The weather is finally changing! Mornings are cooler and sweatshirts and socks are starting to appear. It is definitely October and before we know it Halloween will be here! Begin to get ready for the season by reading some classics, but not your typical Poe, Shelley, or Stoker horror stories.

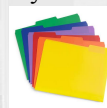

Our suggestion this year is to try some classics that have been "twisted" with zombies, vampires, and all things scary! Click on the book covers below for descriptions and links to these books. Click on Open Library! Remember, you can sign up for a free library card from Open Library to read these books even on your phone. We are happy to assist you with access.

Also, we will have even more 'twisted' modern classics on the bookshelf by our circulation desk this month. Stop by & check out your favorite zombie, vampire, & all things scary books!

Organizing with Google Folders

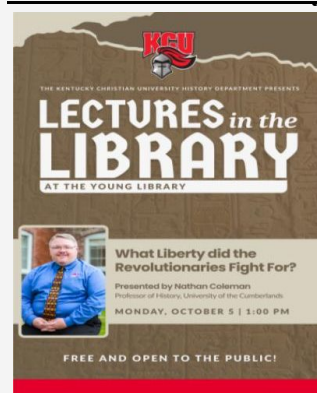

KCU is a Google campus and one of the best tools we have for organizing and tracking your completed work, assignments, and research materials is Google Folders. Open your Google Drive, click on "+ New" at the top of the column on your left and select 'New Folder'. This will immediately add a folder to your drive. Folders stay organized in alphabetical order and always appear before all of your individual list of documents. The other great thing about Google folders is that you can color code them! Just right click on your folder, slide your cursor down to 'Organize' & select your favorite color! Stop by the library if you need some help!

Summer Reading Challenge Results!

Congratulations to everyone who participated in our Summer Reading Challenge! Our winners were Joanna Yates, Maddie Forbes, Abigayle Moore, Elianna Delawder, & Natalie Carter. We read 360 titles & Elianna Delawder was our top reader. Students had the largest number of participants!
